Thursday 3:45-5:00 PM

407. Jr. Coding, Grades 1-3

Coding is the art of telling a computer how to perform complex tasks. When younger students learn computer science, they learn that programming is more than just a confusing, endless string of letters and numbers — but a tool to build apps, make games and music, create artwork or test scientific hypotheses. Once they know how to code, they can create virtual worlds within the computer where the only limit on what is possible is their imagination. In our exciting game-based programming class using a variety of offline resources, your child will work individually and learn to break down problems into bite-sized chunks and write code to solve them. Each week, students will learn core computer science and programming concepts like commands, loops and procedures. All computer apps, touchscreen tablets and all necessary supplies and materials will be provided. Class is 75 minutes in length.
